Progress at a Snail's Pace. October 25, 2018 By Mr. Green Thumb Leave a Comment. When we first decided to go on this journey to homesteading, we just wanted to get started. We wanted to stop talking about it and do it. So, when we first purchased our land we knew that we had made a big leap in progress! We went from talking the talk to ...

Available to play online. So, I've been slithering slowly eastward now for more than 15 minutes, reckoning that if I had made this game I would have put something there, far far away, for the one fool stubborn enough to keep plodding onward, and also in the knowledge that the more intelligent (any maybe even more honest) thing to do would be to just make it go on forever.

History. In 2014, after listening to performances by Hiromi Uehara and various jazz fusion music, Ujiie was inspired to start playing the piano. He started publishing music on SoundCloud in 2012 under the name Ujico* (which he stated was a childhood nickname given to him by a friend). 2013 saw the creation of Ujiie's own record label, Youth Composer Association, a Tokyo-based label ...

The snail's journey is clearly, like the fourth step of humility, a call to live life with a quiet mind. Then, like the psalmist, we can "wait in patience for God's promise is forever" to help us do what must be done in us. —from The Radical Spirit: 12 Ways to Live a Free and Authentic Life by Joan Chittister (Image)

The fold out stage for Jeraldine the bus when folded away for manoeuvrers looks rather brutal where the side windows used to be. We commissioned Dan (the sign writer who painted the Snail's Progress Gamelan logo and illuminated panels) to paint some fake windows with a few wayang puppets as passengers with paddy fields in the background.
